DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Page 5, line 3, "approache" should read --approach--.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Specifically, on page 6, claim 1, lines 3-4 of the claim, bimetal blocks are said to change in shape due to increased oil pressure, whereas throughout the specification the shape of the bimetal blocks are temperature responsive. Moreover, as it is well known in the art, bimetal blocks by definition have different metals of differing coefficients of thermal expansion changing their shape based on temperature and not pressure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3748

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hammer et al. (U.S. Patent 6,736,093).

Hammer et al. disclose a valve adjuster comprising:

- a hydraulically operated valve adjuster 20 varying valve timing (column 3, lines 21-24);
- an oil pump or high pressure pump 32 (column 4, line 16);
- the oil pressure supply line 31 communicating with oil pump 32 to valve adjuster 20 through supply line 21 and return line 22 (column 4, lines 21-32 and Figure 1);
- a restriction means in the form of control valves 37, 38 disposed between oil pump 32 and valve adjuster 20 (column 4, lines 21-32 and Figure 1), the control valves 37, 38 being temperature responsive by means of a temperature element 52 such as a bimetal element (column 4, lines 55-58, Figures 2 and 3) to regulate the control pressure by reducing the cross-sectional area of flow in a temperature-dependent manner to effect higher pressures at higher temperatures (column 6, lines 45-48, lines 57-60).

Re claim 1, all metals have an expansion coefficient and pressure is directly proportional to temperature, so an increase in pressure would inherently increase the temperature and result in the same reduction of cross-sectional area of the control valve cited above.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
